

Seasonal Songs and Forgotten Tunes

Sunday 12 March 2017, 2-4pm | Denis Arnold Hall, Oxford University Faculty of Music, St Aldates

Singers and instrumentalists are invited to take part in a workshop exploring seasonal songs and folk tunes from the Oxfordshire collections of Percy Manning (1870-1917)

For many of these songs, Manning collected only the lyrics: their tunes are no longer known.

This workshop, led by musician and researcher Alice Little, will include a short presentation about the music in Manning's collection and the opportunity to try composing and arranging new music for a selection of songs.

Please bring your own instruments (or voice!); mainly by ear with minimal notation; lyrics and manuscript paper provided

Free, refreshments provided. To reserve your place email alice.little@music.ox.ac.uk

With kind support from:

